History of Printing on Silk: The art of taking a print from ink floating on water was first developed in Japan and by the 12th century the art of Suminagashi had been established. In the beginning of the 15th century the art of marbling would make its entrance into Turkey by way of the Silk Road where the use of all an all water based art form was developed. Ebru or Turkish Marbling is a classical marbling technique producing one-of-a-kind floating pictures. Choosing from a wide variety of colors, liquid paints are placed on top of a thickened transparent fluid bath, creating a unique color palette, which can then be manipulated to create an endless array of designs. This is done using combs, rakes and hand held styluses. Beautiful patterns and various other effects are created by drawing through a second application of paint that is placed directly on top of the first . Finally, a single print of the composed design is transferred to paper or silk.

History from “Create Your Own Silk Scarf” Company:

We developed these programs so participants could create beautiful, high quality, wearable art for themselves, and to introduce a one of a kind, hand marbled silk scarf fashion line. We are a privately owned art program, and not affiliated with any other scarf painting programs of its kind. We are the ORIGINAL CREATORS and use only the highest quality silk and specially developed paints that will not change the hand of the silk. Our scarves (15x72 inches) are 100% silk guaranteed to never run, wash out (hand washable), or fade.
